

Electric Poems

A pedaling adventure in a glittering maze, an electric and dreamlike project full of special effects and magic tricks...

Poetry arises from movement when gizmos have their say and start whispering the wonder of being a Child again...

installations that speak for themselves and without a word, reveal a familiar elsewhere...

A serie of pedaling installations designed and created for indoor and dark rooms.

There are bikes, small, big, even two-seaters and everyone make it their own. On each of them, and from the tip of the toes, electric energy is produced...

And suddenly...all around, everything lights up, turns, jumps, moves, and blinks...water runs, and bubbles...

The facilities come alive to the rythm given to them by the cyclists. And those who don't pedal control and orchestrate the scene through switches.
